What is Food Security or Insecurity?

Availability of food as well as a sense of security of the human being to get enough food in time:

- to meet maintenance requirements
- to maintain health for better performance of all acts of life, and
- to grow well to meet production requirements (healthy offspring, milk production, work output, etc.)

A person is food deficient if he/she is consuming lesser than 2100 cal/day

One's grain is another's drain

Situation in Pakistan

- In 2008, 72 million people (51%) were food insecure and consumed less than 2,100 kcal per day.
- Since 2005-06 the food insecure population has increased by 12 million.
- The number of severely food insecure (consuming less than 1,700 kcal/day) has risen by 9.6 million to 45.3 million people (28%).

Two third of severely food insecure people live in rural areas.
